

20 Alexander Street Bothwell TAS

6 🏠 2 🚗

White's Corner is a remarkable collection of historic colonial buildings awaiting an energetic buyer seeking a directional change in life. Currently, the two residential buildings on the site are used as a successful accommodation venture however, one can be used as a private residence. The number of outbuildings including the Granary, Woolshed and Barn can be developed in ways only limited by the imagination. Whatever you decide, this property presents an exciting opportunity, in one of Tasmania's important historic Georgian townships - Bothwell.

The story of White's Corner begins in 1817, when Thomas Hopkins, a London shoemaker, was transported at age 18 after being sentenced for 7 years for stealing a coat. After
